

Federation of British Historic Vehicle Clubs invites museums to join its directory

The Federation of British Historic Vehicle Clubs (FBHVC) was formed in 1988 and for the past 33 years has protected and maintained the right of UK citizens to use 'yesterday's vehicles on tomorrow's roads'.

Historic Vehicles are formally recognised by the UK Government when they attain an age of 40 years.

The FBHVC successfully represents historic vehicle clubs and has recently been inviting museums to join its directory and tell enthusiasts of the exciting displays and activities they offer. The directory is being continually updated so if you're looking for an interesting day out, just take a look at what the museums have to offer.

As so many museums have been closed due to Covid-19 for so long, the FBHVC is sure enthusiasts will value the opportunity to get out in their vehicles and seek Covid-19 compliant venues.
